Dear Friends,

June 2010 was an action packed month which started with a timely monsoon and ended on big ticket oil reforms.

The India Meteorological Department (IMD) has released its second stage forecasts for the South-West SW monsoon season (June-September 2010). IMD has said that the rainfall in the current monsoon season is likely to be normal. Forecasts revised up for rainfall to 102% of the Long Period Average (LPA) from 98% of the LPA projected in April. Immediate outlook for July and August looks normal, with July expected to receive rainfall to the tune of 98% of its LPA, and August 101% of its LPA.

One of the reasons the IMD cited about rainfalls being normal is the high probability (approximately 60%) for La Nina conditions to develop during the monsoon season, which favors stronger than normal monsoon.

On 25th June 2010, the Government had given a major boost to market oriented reforms in the Oil sector. These included a complete deregulation of petrol prices, hike in diesel prices and a possible deregulation of diesel prices in the long run and hikes in kerosene and LPG. Prior to this, the total under-recovery was expected to be Rs80, 000cr for FY11E (at current prices). Post these changes, the under-recovery for FY11E will stand at Rs53, 000cr.

This is extremely positive and better than market expectations, though on the subsidy sharing mechanism, there has been no decision taken yet. These reforms could lead to reduction in structural nature of the fiscal deficit in the long run.

April 2010 Index of Industrial Production (IIP) registered a robust growth of 17.6% ahead of consensus. If the growth trend continues, we could look at a double digit IIP growth in FY 2010-11. Core sector growth for May 2010 clocked at 5% with growth in cement production and refinery output logging 8.6% and 7.7% respectively.

The recent clarification by the Government to consider ULIPs as insurance policies ends the regulatory uncertainty, thereby enabling the industry to now focus on business growth. The SEBI-IRDA tussle over the last few months had increased uncertainty on regulatory control on ULIPs, therefore raising concerns on the long-term profitability of the private players. The development over the weekend clearly indicates Government's keen interest to promote the sector. The equity and fixed income market have reacted positively and the Insurance Industry will continue to fuel the India Growth engine.

On the international front, China's central bank, Peoples Bank of China (PBOC) has announced it will resume gradual appreciation of the Renminbi (RMB) against the US dollar. In the near term there would be no material impact on Chinese exports. Overall, this move of China to an extent, reduces the risk of trade tensions building up between itself and its trading partners, at least in the immediate future.

Meanwhile, the Indian equity markets have been resilient to the Euro zone crisis and tepid recovery in the US and are trading at less than 17 times FY 11 earnings, which we believe is close to fair value. In the short term, markets will track liquidity flows but will keep a close watch on the first quarter earnings as the earnings season kicks off in a few days. A robust earnings season would confirm the recovery of the Indian economy and keep the markets buoyant.

INVESTMENT PHILOSOPHY

Investment Objective : To Generate a superior and consistent risk adjusted investment returns to meet investors long term objective and return expectation.

The foundation of the investment philosophy rests on the following tenets:

- ◆ We have a long term view based on fundamental research to meet our investor's long term objectives
- ◆ We follow a well defined research process & methodology with rigour
- ◆ We have a largely bottom up stock picking to identify quality stocks at reasonable valuations
- ◆ We follow the same philosophy used for Balance sheet and third party investment

These make us well suited for insurance and pension fund investment.

DEBT MARKET OUTLOOK

The growth outlook for the Indian economy has improved significantly, as the key risk factors have turned benign, namely cooling commodity prices, initial estimates suggesting a normal monsoon and the 3G bonanza, which has reduced worries on the fiscal front.

Bank credit growth has accelerated to 19% YoY in June 2010, which is almost twice the credit growth as of late last year. With expectations of accelerating credit growth to support a buoyant economy, FY11 credit growth is expected to exceed RBI's projection of 20% made in the April 2010 monetary policy meet.

Short-term interest rates have risen due to liquidity tightening in the money markets, which has flattened the yield curve quite significantly as long bond yields have remained static. Although the liquidity deficit peaked in the 3rd week of June 2010 due to the outflow on account of BWA auctions, it will still take at least 15 days before money markets revert to a surplus, keeping up the pressure on short-term interest rates in the near term.

The incremental upside in terms of lower government borrowings due to the 3G bonanza (1.5% of GDP vs. the budgeted 0.5%) is limited due to petroleum subsidies, which even after the recent price hike, account for 0.4% of GDP as against a negligible provision in the budget.

India's merchandise exports have recovered strongly by rising 40% YoY in the three months to April, after declining for 8 consecutive months till September last year. However, the recovery in imports has been much sharper (up 58%), reflecting the sharper recovery in domestic growth relative to global growth.

Inflation remains one of the biggest near-term worries for India. The current double digit inflation was expected to moderate to 7% levels by Dec 2010 and to 5.5% by March 2011. This seems a distant possibility as experts predict an additional inflation of around 1% from direct impact of fuel price hike and an indirect impact of at least 0.5% (with a lag effect), thereby altering the earlier projected trajectory of inflation. A good monsoon will act as a dampener for agri-inflation and bring down food prices and cushion the inflation spike due to fuel hike to a reasonable extent.

Market is expecting rate hike of 25-50 Bps by July 27th RBI policy review in the light of stubborn double digit inflation figures. The consensus view seems to be that this rate hike will not jeopardize the growth in the economy.

The 10 year G-sec is expected to trade in a narrow band between 7.40-7.70% factoring in the rate hike, in the base case scenario. Global uncertainties could make the G-sec break the lower end of the band and a sharp spike in crude could push the yield beyond the higher end of the range.

EQUITY MARKET OUTLOOK

Indian equity markets registered a stellar performance in June 2010 as the Sensex registered a gain of 4.46% to close the month at 17700.

April Index for Industrial Production (IIP) rose sharply (17.6% YOY); IIP has now grown by double-digits for seven months. May Purchase Manager Index (PMI) also rose to its highest since February 2008. All this suggests that demand will continue to be strong going forward and is putting increasing pressure on capacity. Private investment has remained sluggish for the last 18 months, and will have to rebound strongly to cope with the strong demand.

After two years of sluggish growth, we can expect the investment cycle to revive in FY11. Corporate profitability has improved. The large capital-raising during FY10 has repaired corporate balance-sheets and both availability as well as cost of capital is at reasonable levels.

In 4QFY10, Gross fixed capital formation (GFCF) grew 25% YoY—fastest growth in at least five years. On a trailing 4Q basis, share of GFCF in the GDP has increased, after declining for a few quarters. New project announcements have already increased sequentially for three consecutive quarters and in Q4 2010, they were at 2008 levels.

Acceleration in growth is fairly broad-based, with the slowest growing component, basic goods, growing at over 9% YoY over the past three months. The capital goods sector continues to be the growth driver, with an average growth of 45% over the past three months, up from 35% growth in the preceding three months. Other indicators of growth remain mixed. While headline auto sales growth and two-wheeler sales remain strong, domestic passenger car sales have stagnated for the past three months. Railway freight growth has decelerated sharply, but export traffic growth has picked up over 3-4 months.

Many analysts forecast increase in earnings growth for FY11 by approximately 600bps since January 2010. The Indian equity's relative out performance to its emerging market peers can be attributed to the macro economy, the restoration of the yoy GDP growth towards 8-9% and an improving platform for earnings growth.

India Inc (as represented by India's top 100 companies) quarter ending June(FY 2010-11), advance tax collections have increased by 18.7% yoy, rising to Rs12700 crores. The robust increase in advance taxes reinforces the belief that higher GDP growth trajectory will lead to a cyclical rebound in taxes and help further in fiscal consolidation – which is already showing encouraging signs on the back of better-than-expected 3G and BWA auctions.

The market trading at less than 17 times FY 11 earnings is fairly priced and would wait for the second quarter earnings starting 1st week of July 2010 to chart its course. Over the last quarter, the Indian markets have shown great resilience in the midst of global uncertainties even as S&P and Shanghai indices have registered significant corrections.
